

Ohioan Sees Japs Slaughtered in 'Banzai' Charge on Saipan

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands—(Delayed)—Marine Lt. Col. Lewis B. Rock, publisher of the Herald and Journal in Dayton, O., told today of sitting for two days at his observation post in the mountains of central Saipan and watching destruction of a fanatical Japanese Banzai counterattack which Admiral Nimitz said "came with sudden ferocity on a scale surpassing any previous assault of its kind in the central or western Pacific war."

Colonel Rock described it as a throwback to medieval battle scenes, gripping and dramatic. Within our own lines, Colonel Rock saw troops moving into position to meet the attack, some of them unaware that this was the long expected Banzai assault to die for the emperor. He saw the enemy's fanatical charge, the Japanese, sometimes in perfect order, at times with utter disregard for their own safety, infiltrate the American flanking positions, and he saw our forces driven back by the impetus of the initial lunge.

he related, "There were men with bandaged heads, men without arms, men on crutches, the great majority of them unarmed. They were tagging along, sometimes a mile or more behind the fighting troops, to participate in this last Banzai charge, to have the privilege of dying for the emperor."

Colonel Rock sat atop the hill and saw Japanese break through to capture a battery of American field artillery, killing and driving the gunners back into our own lines. Along the western coast, he saw army troops, driven back by the relentless, fanatical enemy charge, pinned in small pockets along the shore. An hour later, he saw them forced into the sea. He saw them swim to reefs 500 yards offshore. He saw our planes swoop low to drop life rafts to the swimming soldiers; he saw landing craft head out from destroyers at sea to pick them off the reefs. And he saw a huge red stain slowly spread over the water as Japanese mortars and rifle fire picked off the swimming men.

FEDERAL POWER CHALLENGED BY GOP GOVERNORS

Conference Ends With Plans Laid To Fight New Deal Domestic Policies

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—(P)—The 26 Republican governors, asserting they had achieved "unity of thought" with presidential candidate Thomas E. Dewey, charged today that the asserted failure of President Roosevelt to exchange views with state executives had produced "costly misunderstandings" in the past.

Summing up two days of conferences on what Dewey has called "areas of friction" between the states and the federal government, the GOP governors asserted it was their intention to work closely with Dewey if he becomes president.

JOB CREATION BY INVESTMENT ASKED

Ohio Congressman Suggests Developing incentive

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—New studies of the country's tax structure have convinced Rep. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) that post-war adjustments to encourage job-creating investments should be considered soon.

Jackie Cooper Facing Delinquency Charges

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 4.—(P)—St. Joseph County Prosecutor Arthur F. Scherr said today affidavits had been filed charging four persons, including Jackie Cooper, 22, of Beverly Hills, Calif., whom he identified as a star in a recent movie called "Where Are Your Children," with contributing to and encouraging the delinquency of minors.

Transportation System in Philadelphia Is Placed Under Army Control

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(P)—Roaming bands of strikers threatened violence today to workers attempting to restore service on Philadelphia's government-seized transportation lines and—at the Army's request—policemen were assigned to ride all trolleys, buses, subway trains and "el" trains to protect operators.

Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes of the Third Service Command, who took control of the system last night on President Roosevelt's orders, said persons with apparent enemy sympathies were attempting to prevent resumption of service.

This afternoon—hours after the Army's 5 A. M. (EWT) deadline—only 14 trains were in continuous operation on the Market Street "el" and eight in the Broad Street subway tube compared with a rush-hour total for both lines of 77. No buses moved in this busy war-time metropolis of 2,000,000 and only the trolleys on one route operated.

In Washington, Attorney General Biddle ordered an immediate investigation to determine whether any federal laws had been violated, with particular attention directed to possible violation of the Smith-Connally anti-strike act.

The stoppage, which began Tuesday morning in protest against the upgrading of Negro transit employees, had stranded hundreds of thousands, curtailed vital war production and given rise to race violence.

SCARCITY OF LIQUOR BLAMED ON HOARDING BY LARGE DISTILLERS

Senate Committee Suggests Monopoly be Investigated

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—A Senate committee challenged the liquor industry today to turn loose what it called hoarded stocks of whisky, thereby to ease a shortage for consumers.

FOUR WOMEN PAROLED FROM WOMEN'S PRISON

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4.—(P)—Anne J. Jones and Alice M. Flowers, both convicted from Stark County of arson and sodomy, respectively, will be paroled from the Women's Reformatory at Marysville, September 1, the Ohio Pardon and Parole Commission announced.

Paroles also were granted Corrine Stewart of Richland County, convicted of cutting with intent to wound, effective November 1, and Dorothy Johnson of Licking County, convicted of conveying articles into jail to aid escape, grand larceny and burglary and larceny, effective September 1.

SPREADING GRASS BLAZE SETS RUBBER PILE AFIRE

AKRON, August 4.—(P)—Thirty-one firemen were overcome and one spectator injured yesterday when a spreading grass blaze fired the scrap rubber storage yards of the A. Schulman, Inc., plant. The burning rubber was spread over a quarter of a square mile. Three tile and brick structures and ten box cars on sidings were destroyed before all available Akron apparatus and departments from neighboring communities brought the flames under control.

Fall of Florence Looms—Reds Press Drive on Big Front

Russians Take Heavy Toll in Fighting and Seal Fate of Thousands of Nazis Caught in Traps—Allied Air Attacks Renewed As Weather Clears

While the Russians continued to smash forward against the Germans on the flaming 1000-mile front and the Allied invasion forces continued to drive the Germans (those who survived and failed to surrender) into other pockets in France, Hitler's military clique faced a new menace on the southern side of its European Fortress as the fall of Florence, after bitter and dogged battling in Italy appeared imminent.

Meanwhile, Allied air armadas, which had been handicapped for several days by bad weather, were reported roaring out from their scattered bases to blast strategic targets in Naziland and spread havoc and death among the Germans on the fighting fronts.

ADVANCE IN ITALY

ROME, Aug. 4.—(P)—Allied entry into Florence appeared imminent today, with the Germans falling back before the unrelenting pressure of New Zealand and South African troops.

The Germans were on the run back through Florence, and their guns flashed from the peaks which rise behind the beautiful Tuscan city.

Nazi forces departed last night from a ridge south of the city. From that vantage point today AP Correspondent Lynn Heinzel looked down on Florence and through the smoke of German guns just outside the city was able to pick up glistening church domes.

Some of the Allied troops were less than three miles from the city.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Senate War Investigating Committee turned today to a one-time Capitol building policeman to direct its future policing of the war program on the home front.

THE CRITICAL CIGARETTE shortage caused these two women to turn to cigars for their smoking, and the sight was so unusual, that a tavern patron called two photographers to the scene. Lucky it was, too, that two cameramen came, for when the women found that they had been snapped (photo at left), they attacked one of the photographers (photo at right) and the remaining one made a picture of the ensuing entanglement. 47,000 Japs Entrapped On Guam, New Guinea; Key Burma Base Seized

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 4.—(P)—Two powerful traps today entombed more than 7,000 Japanese on Guam's north plateau and some 40,000 more in the British New Guinea jungles, with only death or surrender awaiting them.

Already the Japanese death toll in those areas is upward of 26,000. On Guam, where 7,893 enemy dead have been counted, American marines and soldiers are pushing the desperately fighting Japanese toward the sea, with only eight miles to go.

MONOPOLY CHARGE ON ROSS HOSPITAL

Chillicothe Hospital Taxable, State Says

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4.—(P)—Chillicothe Hospital is not used solely for charitable purposes and therefore its real property is taxable, the State Board of Tax Appeals held today.

The board said evidence showed it was the hospital's policy not to admit anyone to the institution unless he was a patient of a member of the Ross County Medical Society.

This constitutes "a virtual monopoly" by the county medical group, the board declared.

The ruling was made on a complaint filed by Samuel J. Wilkins of Chillicothe, an interested taxpayer, against William H. Herrington, Ross County auditor, and the Chillicothe Hospital Association. Wilkins requested that the real property of the hospital be restored to the tax list and duplicate for the year 1943.

The latest correspondents' dispatches said the doughboy tide, spreading 20 miles southward of the central communications hub of Rennes, were within 43 miles of St. Nazaire, the Nazi U-boat base which British commandos partly wrecked in March, 1942, using an old U. S. destroyer as a time bomb.

These reports showed they also were 43 miles from the Loire River city of Nantes, while 27 miles west of Rennes they were approaching Mauron, 103 miles from the French naval base of Brest.

The Germans were finding it hard to hold on even to the only stable stretch of the front, a 35-mile line below Caen.

Latest reports from that area said the Germans there, too, were in retreat, and that Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's Second British army was within an ace of grabbing the stronghold of Villers-Bogage.

Fall of St. Nazaire would open to the Americans the once great troop port through which many of the 2,000,000 American soldiers poured into France in 1917 and 1918.

Yet other forces advanced in rapid strides to within two miles of Evran, seven miles south of captured Dinan on the north side of Brittany, and jumped off to attack the German-held north coast city of St. Malo which had been by-passed in the strike to Dinan.

Fighting in Rennes streets leading to the heart of the town, where an encircled but fanatic enemy garrison was holding out.

The Americans struck due south close to Bain-De-Bretagne, 17 miles south of Rennes and 43 miles from Nantes, a port city of 195,000 population up the Loire River.

They also were within five miles of Pipriac, 20 miles southwest of Rennes and 43 miles from St. Nazaire, the U-boat base and U. S. troop port in the first World War.

Although there still was fighting at Rennes, field dispatches said the position of the German garrison there was hopeless. (Secretary Stimson in Wash.)

CITY DUMP FIRE STILL BURNING WITHOUT CHECKS

Scarcity of Water Results in Spread of Flames

Once more the city dump, old offender to residents of eastern Washington C. H., is on fire, and this time the fire is being allowed to burn, due to water shortage, or what may be a shortage.

Usually a large amount of water is used in extinguishing the dump fires, and when discovery was made Thursday that the dump was ablaze, City Manager W. L. Stambaugh, in view of the request of the Ohio Water Service Co. to conserve water, decided not to try to extinguish it at present. As the burning continues, smoke from the dump, and the disagreeable odor it carries, will probably cause a great deal of annoyance to many citizens until rain or more abundant water supply ends the fire.

had perished due to "privation, starvation and constant air bombardment and attrition."

Added to all these dead were 5,000 estimated by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz to have been accounted for by marine conquerors of Tinian over which the American flag was raised formally Wednesday.

Four thousand civilians have been interned on Tinian and 7,000 on Guam.

A Nimitz communiqué last night recorded two mile gains Wednesday all the way across the north plateau end of Guam. Flying within 100 feet of the ground, carrier planes paced the attack, pouring bombs and rockets into fortifications and storage areas.

"Shooting The Works" In the British New Guinea action, centered in the Drimor River area between Wewak and Aitape, "the Japanese appeared to be shooting the works," reported Murlin Spencer, Associated Press war correspondent.

Carrying 75-mm. mountain guns forward on their backs and firing at point-blank range, the Japanese made four suicidal attacks Wednesday extending over 11 hours. Accustomed to such "banzai" charges, the Americans waited until the enemy was within close range and mowed him down.

KEY BURMA BASE SEIZED SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 4—(AP)—American, British and Chinese forces have captured Myitkyna, major Japanese base in northern Burma, after a bitter and bloody seizure that began last May 17, it was announced today.

At least 3,000 Japanese were slain there during the 2 1/2 months of fighting. The last remnants of the garrison either were killed or captured in the final mop-up of this largest city in northern Burma.

The victory gave the Allies control of two Myitkyna airfields and an important road and rail junction of the upper Irrawaddy River for a prospective link-up with Chinese forces in Yunnan to the east in a combined effort to open a land route to China.

Forward Allied troops in North Burma are firmly established probably not more than 20 miles from advance elements of the Chinese moving westward.

CHERRY HILL STABLE HAS PERFECT RECORD

Miss Joan Allen Wins With Sabina-owned Horse

Four classes entered and four blue ribbons, first place trophies carried off—that is the record to date for the Cherry Hill Stables of Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Allen and their daughter, Miss Joan at the Greene County Fair's horse show. And there is the big stake for fine harness horses yet to come.

After taking two firsts in the show on Wednesday, Mrs. Allen came back Thursday to carry off top honors in the fine harness class for mares with Patsy Terrell and followed that up with Black Penny in the fine harness class for stallions and geldings.

Not to be entirely outshone by her mother, Miss Joan Allen won the ladies' horsemanship class riding R. L. Littleton and Son's three-gaited San Angelo. The Littletons, Sabina residents, are comparative newcomers to the show horse sport and have been taking their share of honors this season. Miss Allen rode their horse because Mrs. Littleton has not yet ridden in shows and the class was for lady riders.

unanimously by the governors, who also organized politically for the presidential campaign, included a recommendation for coordination of federal and state systems to eliminate "double taxation."

In this connection, the Republican executives said that while there must be economy this did not mean "the indiscriminate slashing and cutting of governmental budgets."

Reorganization of the federal administration of welfare agencies was urged.

The report outlined a social welfare program in which the states and local communities would improve existing hospitalization, clinical treatment, visiting nurses and other health activities, with the work of existing agencies more closely integrated.

The governors also called for "an immediate drastic change in the spirit and methods of administration" of existing labor laws. The group endorsed federal regulation of wages, hours and child labor, saying the states should supplement these minimum standards in line with local conditions.

Final points in the policy pronouncement were issued in the wake of a meeting which found said the Republican organization spilling for a fight and challenging the New Deal's approach to domestic problems.

provided for Philadelphia's war workers."

"Delay in restoring full operation is measured in the blood of American soldiers overseas," he said. "Those who obstruct our operation have that blood on their hands."

He promised full legal penalties for any who interfere with service and said "it is obvious that the overwhelming majority of transit employees are conscious of the supreme obligation they have to our fighting men."

Workers Defy Union The union released a statement issued by Philip Murray, president of the CIO, urging that the workers return.

"The CIO adopted a wartime policy that is wholly in the best interests of every working man and woman during our country's fight for survival," the statement said in an apparent reference to the CIO's no strike pledge.

"Those who prevail upon decent American workers to strike in wartime inevitably bring grief and serious losses to such workers."

James J. Fitzsimon, international vice president of the Transport Workers' Union (CIO), workers' bargaining agent which has condemned the walkout, issued a statement today saying:

"We know that you (PTC employees) are good Americans and good union men. Your own future, your wages, your working conditions and your family's security are at stake. Your country's victory in the war is at stake. You will serve both by getting back on the job at once."

Fitzsimon previously alleged the stoppage was instigated by "enemy agents" with the aim of inciting race riots and curtailing war production.

Only twelve elevated trains, seven subway trains and the trolleys on one route had operated up to 8 A. M., three hours after the Army's deadline for resumption of service under an order from President Roosevelt seizing the lines in the name of the government.

After seven trains had pulled out of the 69th Street elevated terminal, a band of strikers appeared on the platform and attempted to dissuade other crews from making their runs. Only one crew walked out again.

Eleven windows were smashed during the night in a flareup of race disorder which already had slain 14 persons to hospitals.

At 8:30 A. M., heavy details of police were dispatched to the Hunting Park station of the Broad Street subway on a report of a "bad disturbance" there.

Meanwhile, hundreds of thousands of Philadelphians again hitch-hiked, walked or used makeshift transportation provided by employers, to get to their jobs.

The Army gave no immediate indication of what action it would take if complete service was not restored.

A mass meeting of many of the Philadelphia Transportation Company's 6,000 employees voted last night to continue the blackout on the ground that the racial issue which prompted the work stoppage three days ago had not been settled by government seizure. The men walked out originally

DISBARMENT OF ATTORNEY LIFTED

J. A. Horn of Greenfield Is Reinstated

Attorney J. A. Horn, of Greenfield, has been reinstated as a member of the Highland County Bar, as result of an opinion handed down by Judge Charles G. White, of Clermont County. Horn was disbarred in March 1936 and filed an application for reinstatement in the Highland County Common Pleas Court several months ago.

Judge G. W. McDowell appointed two attorneys to investigate Horn's conduct since disbarment and at Judge McDowell's request, Judge White heard the committee's report.

Judge White, in his decision, said the evidence shows Horn has, since his disbarment, supported his family, attended church, performed menial labor at first, but has since improved his position to one of responsibility with the government. He is a clerk in the Federal BUC offices at Columbus. He has also made restitution in all claims except one, which is, Judge White stated, "to say the least, questionable."

Judge White ruled that Horn has shown himself worthy of the trust of being restored to practice of law and to his rights as an attorney. Horn does not expect to resume practice immediately.

The report described these distillers as "the big four" in the liquor industry and said they were tending to drive small competitors out of business.

That Important 25 Percent

All of the campaigning or lack of campaigning by the presidential candidates, all the speech-making and tub-thumping and rallies are going to be aimed at only one quarter of the American electorate. At least that is the assertion of Dr. George Gallup's poll, which says that three out of four votes have already made up their minds.

Dr. Gallup is a feeler of the public pulse whose diagnoses of opinion are usually accurate. If you disbelieve the figures in this case, you can sample your own circle of acquaintances. You might even find that the three-out-of-four estimate is conservative.

But even if less than 10,000,000 of the approximately 40,000,000 civilian voters are still undecided, that minority is eminently worth wooing. For, with the voters in the armed forces, they hold the balance of power. In the 1940 presidential election, aside from nine southern states that are persistently and perennially Democratic, the winner's majority was less than 25 percent in 35 of the 39 states.

Who are the still-to-be-convinced voters who probably will decide the election? It's easy to say who they aren't. They aren't those who vote a straight ticket for regional reasons, or because pa and grandpa always voted that way. They aren't federal job holders, or people dependent on the ward or city political boss for their livelihood. They don't belong to the two sizable groups who think that President Roosevelt either can do no wrong, or can do nothing right.

Some may be vacillating and weak willed and some may be different. But our guess is that the majority of this minority is made up of intelligent citizens who are impervious to emotional catch phrases, unswayed by party prejudice, given to a long view of a subject and a desire to hear all the evidence.

If that is so, they aren't getting much help from their fellow citizens. This year, when time is precious and the stakes are great, much time and breath again are being wasted in unproductive and frequently unbecoming arguments between two voters whose minds are sealed against change, but who still consider a vote against their man as a personal affront.

The epithets already have started flying—phony, dictator, Communist, Fascist, win-the-war, lose-the-war and so on. Once again some voters are thinking that if they can call the most names in the loudest voice, they have achieved a triumph of political logic.

Wouldn't it be nice if the convinced three-quarters could wear lapel buttons stating, "I've already made up my mind," and let the poor independent voter read the papers, listen to the candidates, and make his decision in a quiet atmosphere devoid of partisan harangue.

ADVANCED HQ. SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND, Kandy, Ceylon—Allied military master-minds were stymied recently by a roadblock set up by a mahout full of arak and his elephant, equally full of loyalty. Overcome by the local firewater distilled from coconut juice, the mahout fell off the elephant and lay on the roadside. When a driver happened along and tried to help him, the elephant bared its tusks, raised its trunk and made ready for a frontal attack. The driver retreated. Brass hats, stretching away in an increasing vehicular queue behind the barrier, finally sent for the mahout's wife. She showed up an hour later, got the column moving, and led her husband away by the ear. The elephant tagged on behind.

Hints on Etiquette

When you have accidentally been discourteous, say "I'm sorry," or "I beg your pardon." "Excuse me" is correct only when you are asking to be excused from the table or a room or some similar situation.

Words of Wisdom

We all have day dreams of what we wish to be, or have, or do; and the high imaginary standard, like the good resolutions we form, aids us, often, to a higher and better life.

Today's Horoscope

Although you are positive, opinionated, willful, shrewd and intellectual, you are also just and sincere, and do many kind and noble deeds unknown to others. You are friendly, and have many fine friendships. Your home and family ties are dear to you. The next year call for caution and restraint in love, domestic and social matters. Including speech and correspondence. Avoid changes during this period and conserve your resources. The child who is born on this date will experience many vicissitudes of fortune but will overcome all obstacles. Elders will help, and also hinder, progress.

urance has been state regulated. The effect of the present decision is that many companies will find themselves—unless congress now intervenes with a special exemption—compelled by state law to do what they are forbidden to do under the Sherman anti-trust law. They cannot have rate regulation and unrestricted competition at the same time.

Associate Justice Jackson, in a dissenting opinion, pointed out that: "The Court's decision at the very least will require an extensive overhauling of state legislation. . . What will be irretrievably lost and what will be salvaged no one can now say, and it will take a generation of litigation to determine. . . The recklessness of such a course is emphasized when we consider that congress has not one line of legislation deliberately designed to take over federal responsibility for this important and complicated enterprise. . . A poorer time to thrust upon congress the necessity for framing a plan for nationalization of insurance control would be hard to find."

As the Portland Oregonian observes: "The vista of federal power and regimentation widens day by day."

A Holyoke, Mass., draft board turned down the plea of a young wife who asked her husband's deferment for an "extreme emergency"—she wanted to re-paper the house, and there was no one else to do the job. If the Holyoke housewife will just be patient, we know of an Austrian paper-hanger who has failed in a somewhat more ambitious venture in Germany and, we understand, is thinking of returning to his old trade.

The Machine Age—its Uses, Limitations, in Diagnosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE PATIENT who is always so anxious to have the doctor back up a machine in order to make a diagnosis is suffering from a deep seated conviction that the machine is more accurate than the human being who is the diagnostician. And one reason that idea is false is that the machine simply furnishes some data, some facts, which have to go through the diagnostician's human mind before they can be interpreted, before they fall into the right category to form the proper conclusion.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The other and perhaps better reason such ideas are erroneous is that no machine on earth is as delicate and as beautifully competent as the diagnostician's human eye.

When a trained diagnostician looks at any abnormality—I care not what it be—a lump under the skin, a pair of tonsils, an aching joint, he instinctively begins to make notes. Is it red, he asks himself, is it tender, how long has it been there, is it an inflammation, or a new growth, or a degeneration, did it start somewhere else? And instinctively also he is fitting it into his acquaintance with the changes in human tissues, described by the science of pathology or diseased processes, until finally he has it classified. Then he knows more than any machine would ever be able to tell him, what the nature of this abnormal process is, what the cause is, what the outcome is likely to be, whether there is any way to cure or relieve it.

Extension of Vision

The basis of those judgements is largely the conditions which his eye has brought to him. Sometimes, as in the case of disease of the chest or the abdomen where it is located so deep the eye cannot see it, he depends on his fingers and his ears.

That is why any extension of vision is of such great value in medical work. We have had a good many such extensions in the last few years. Indeed the great value of the X-ray is that it is merely an extension of our eyes into opaque tissue. It reveals what we might see in bones, lungs, heart and stomach if we could tear aside the flesh. But it is no more than just the human eye operating under exceedingly favorable circumstances.

Then we have had quite an array of extensions of the eye into the cavities of the body by means of electric lighted instruments. The ophthalmoscope to see the retina of the eye was the first of these. Then came the otoscope to see the eardrum, and the laryngoscope to see the vocal cords. And then a series of eyes on sticks that could be thrust into the dark recesses of the body, the cystoscope to see the inside of the bladder and the proctoscope to see the inside of the rectum.

Peritoneoscopy and Gastrososcopy
The latest of these extensions of the eye are the peritoneoscopy and the gastrososcopy.

The peritoneoscopy is an electric lighted stick which can be thrust through a minute opening in the abdominal wall and by moving it around can be put into position to see all the organs of that region. Surgeons have long had a procedure they called an exploratory laparotomy. This was used in cases which had puzzled the attending physicians and surgeons and consisted of opening the abdomen as for an operation to see exactly what was present. The peritoneoscopy does an exploratory laparotomy with a tenth of the fuss. None but a local anesthetic is required and the incision is no bigger than enough to admit a lead pencil. Many cases supposed to be cancer have been found to be relatively benign gallbladder or uterine disease in this way.

The gastroscope performs the same function for the inside of the stomach. It is a flexible tube with an electric light and lenses in the end which the patient allows so that the entire inside of the stomach can be visualized. Its great successes have been in the early recognition of cancer of the stomach—early enough so that they can be successfully removed surgically.

A. R.:—Would a teaspoonful of lemon juice taken daily aid in keeping a person's weight down without dieting?

Answer: No. The only thing it could possibly do would be to dampen the appetite, and that is subconscious dieting.

THE REST OF MY LIFE WITH YOU

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

Matthew returned to Judith. He asked, "What's the big idea?"

"I slipped. Gosh, my head hurts."

"It will, for a while. You must stay in bed, be quiet."

"I don't want to."

"There is such a thing as restraint, you know, and I shall issue certain orders to Miss Meredith. Not that it won't be highly unethical."

She said, "It was good of you to come."

"You wanted me, didn't you?"

There was a long silence. "Yes," said Judith, and turned her head aside. The ice bag slipped and he recovered it. His hands were skillful and gentle.

Matthew said, "Try to sleep," and moved away to consult Miss Meredith to learn from her what routine orders had been given.

He was quietly leaving the room when Judith spoke. "You're going?"

"Not really," he told her. "I'll be here for the rest of the night in case you need me."

He went out, shutting the door swiftly, and another door opened along the corridor. Mary looked out and called him. She said, as he reached her, "I wish you'd have a look at Ella. She won't have anything to do with Dr. Morrow, told me he looks like a codfish."

Ella was in bed, she had been crying. Matthew went in and took her hand. Her pulse was rapid. She said, with the hoarseness which follows weeping, "Sorry to be such a fool, but when they carried her up from the pool—You see, I never had any children. I didn't realize what—"

"Of course," cut in Matthew. "Look here, Judy's got a slight concussion. She'll stay in bed and be watched and all that, and soon she'll be well, after which she may have a headache for a while. But I anticipate nothing further. Dr. Morrow knows his job, he didn't need anything but his two eyes and his hands to tell him that she'll be right as rain in no time. But as for you, my girl," he added cheerfully, "you rate a sedative and a good sleep. By the way, can you provide me with a bed and a pair of pajamas?"

Ella giggled. "I like you . . . I thought I wouldn't."

"Good," said Matthew.

"And as long as I haven't a doctor I really like, that is, not in the East anyway."

Matthew interrupted with, "That's why I came out, to drum up trade." He winked at his mother. "Pajamas!" said Ella. "Herbert might—"

Eva knocked and came in, and Ella said fretfully, "Eva, where in the world have you been?"

"Waiting."

"Find Dr. Norman a room, he's going to stay."

"Till about five-thirty," supplemented Matthew. "I'm due at the hospital at eight."

His mother said, "I'll have breakfast for you . . . then you won't disturb anyone. I know you'd rather stay tonight."

Matthew opened his bag and produced some pellets. He gave them to Eva with instructions, "for Mrs. Loring," he said, "and one wouldn't do you any harm." He took Ella's hand and smiled at her.

Returning to Judith's room, Miss Meredith admitted him with a finger on her lips. Judith was asleep. He stood by the bed and looked down at her. She looked not at all like the girl in the white bathing suit who had sat up at the edge of the pool, whose blue eyes had blazed at him.

He had her wrist, his finger on her pulse. He put her hand down on the counterpane and told Miss Meredith that he would be within call. His room, he had learned, was just next door.

When he left, his mother was waiting for him. She said, "You must be tired."

"Never felt better. Poor kid, she might have had a fracture out of this."

They went downstairs to the butler's pantry and Mary watched her son consume chicken, tongue sandwiches, and a bottle of beer.

She said, "It was absurd to drag you up here, but she asked for you and Ella was frantic. Eva too, but she controlled herself. I don't suppose Ella ever realized how much Judith means to her, until now."

Matthew rejoined, "I didn't mind. Looks as if I'd a new patient out of it too," he added calmly. "Not that she's anything too wrong with Mrs. Loring except glands and overindulgence."

Mary rose. "I'll go back to the cottage."

"I'll take you over."

"Don't bother," said his mother. "It's just a step. Judith might need you; besides, Ella might take it into her head to ask you."

Going through the vast dining room beside her, he paused suddenly to ask, "What did happen, exactly?"

"Jimmy Treadway came over after you left. He had a gang with him and they went swimming."

"Haven't he a pool of his own?"

"Two, but it appears that he called Judith and asked her to join them in a swimming party and she refused, so the mountain came to Mohammed."

"How nice!"

"There wasn't anything out of the way," Mary went on, "except that Jimmy and a couple of the others had been drinking and there was a sort of roughhouse and in the general confusion Judith slipped—"

"Or was pushed?"

"I didn't see it," said Mary, "none of us did. Eva had gone to bed; Ella was in bed too, reading. As far as I could discover, she was thrown by accident, and so hit her head."

"Who threw her?"

"Jimmy Treadway, I think. He was frantic. Raved on about ambulances, hospitals, brain specialists. He was nearly out of his mind. He kept saying, 'Judy, speak to me, until someone shushed him and we finally got his gang to take him away. He's phoned at ten-minute intervals. Not, however, since you came, so I hope we are rid of him until tomorrow."

Matthew went out on the steps with her. Mary produced a little flashlight and switched it on. She reached up to kiss his cheek, saying, "Do get a good sleep. We all feel better because you are here." He watched the little light go down the path, flicker around a bush, turn a corner and disappear. Matthew went upstairs and to the room allotted him. Very super-colossal: Many windows, a great wide awn bed, chaise longue, deep chairs, fancy radio, and a huge gleaming bathroom. Ella does herself well, said Dr. Norman to himself, almost dropping a shoe but remembering in time.

On the bed lay a pair of rather small, very chaste pajamas, blue and white striped. Pajamas and a safety razor and a tube of cream. Matthew viewed the pajamas with academic interest and threw them on a chair. He slept until a little past five when he woke without benefit of alarm clock.

Matthew turned the alarm switch off and lay there, blinking, trying to orient himself: Villa Capri. His mother. Judith, next door. No one had called him all night.

Judith had slept while Nurse Meredith sat beside her. Twice she had awakened only to sleep again. On each occasion she had asked, drowsily, "Is Matthew here?" and Miss Meredith had replied, "Yes, Miss Lambert, Dr. Norman is just next door." And had raised the eyebrows of her mind, but not in disapproval.

Matthew got up and stretched. He went softly to his streamlined bathroom and behind its glass doors the shower thundered over him. He dressed rapidly and soon knocked on Judith's door.

Miss Meredith admitted him. The patient was asleep. She looks sixteen, he thought. He wished Treadway was there, he would like to knock him down.

Nurse Meredith's report was brief and unalarming. Matthew went over to put his finger on Judith's wrist. "She'll do," he said, adding that he understood Dr. Morrow would be in, early.

He went quietly from the room but Eva was there in the corridor, in a silk robe.

"She's fine," announced Matthew quickly. "I am sure there is no cause for anxiety. Your difficulty will be to keep her quiet. If Dr. Morrow hasn't suggested a day nurse, you might. It would come a little better from you than from me as I haven't any business on this case," he reminded her, smiling.

"Indeed you have," contradicted Eva; "she wanted you; we all did. Thank you for coming, Matthew."

He touched her shoulder, said, "I'll come back, first chance I get. In a day or two anyway . . . if the office slackens. And you can call me any time. Tell Judy to behave herself and I'll be seeing her socially pretty soon. How is Mrs. Loring?"

"She's sleeping—and she thinks you're quite wonderful."

"I am," he agreed, "but few appreciate it," and laughing a little, ran down the stairs, his bag in hand, and over the bright lawns toward the east-box.

CONGRESSMAN REPORTS TO HIS STOCKHOLDERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Sen. Harold H. Burton (R) of Ohio says he sent semi-annual reports of his doings in congress to his "stockholders"—the people of Ohio.

Burton struck on the plan, he said yesterday, as the only way out of answering thousands of letters—they hit hit 1,000 daily during the lend-lease debates.

In each report Burton tells some 6,000 heads of educational, civic and educational groups as well as newspapers and mayors, how and why he voted on certain measures. Unusual activities, such as his trip on an inspection tour of Alaska, call for a supplemental report.

A three course luncheon, marked by appetizing appearance and of delicious quality, was served by the club hostess at two round tables, placed near the large windows to facilitate a nice view of the spacious and well-kept lawns of the club. Mrs. Jackson used as centerpieces for the tables, colorful watergardens of summer flowers. Seen at vantage points throughout the club lounge were other clever arrangements of the gorgeous blooms.

Following a prolonged and enjoyable luncheon hour, during which Mrs. Jackson graciously presided as hostess, the guests motored to the Jackson home in this city for the afternoon of bridge which followed. Here, again were used various arrangements of garden flowers, which were greatly admired by those attending.

When the scores were tallied after a most pleasurable afternoon, prizes went to Mrs. C. D. Young and Mrs. J. J. Kelley. The hostess then presented her guest of honor with a lovely and appropriate gift, for which Mrs. Hitchcock waxed great enthusiasm and appreciation.

Guardsmen and Methodists Win Softball Tourney Games

The Eagles, one of the tough but somewhat unpredictable teams of the City Softball League all season, were no exception in the double-elimination tournament Thursday evening at Wilson Field by the always-dangerous Methodists by a score of 2 to 1 in the first game of the two-game program.

In the second game, the Guardsmen of Company D, shut the door on the Lions with a 14 to 6 bang after a wild and woolly fracas that had everything to keep the spectators interested.

The Eagles scored their only run in the third inning on two consecutive hits. The Methodists tied it up in their half and then the game went scoreless until the sixth when Shaw lashed out a double and scored on a couple of Eagle errors to put the Churchmen in front and give them the victory.

The defeat put the Eagles out of the tourney and the victory gave the Methodists the right to meet the guardsmen next week.

The Lions opened up on the Guardsmen with their heavy artillery as Brandenburg, first up in the first inning of the second game of the evening, smacked one far into the field for a home run, but they were unable to stop the offense of the troopers after they sent 9 runs across on 9 hits in the second.

Errors played an important part in the game. The Guardsmen got 15 hits off Orr on which they cashed in 14 runs with the aid of 4 misplays. Parker held the Lions to 4 hits, but bobbles by his team mates let them score 6 runs.

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By FRITZ HOWELL (Pinch-hitting for Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(AP)—Training will tell!

Out at Oxford, Ohio, the V-12 unit at Miami University was playing a baseball game. Major John Robb, commander of the Marine detachment, veteran of Guadalcanal and former Hanover (Ind.) college athlete, was pitching.

Behind the plate was a Marine private. One of the major's slants went into the dirt, squirted away from the kid catcher, and a runner on first scooted to second. The catcher pulled off his mask, dived for the ball, but retrieved it too late to make a throw.

The catcher looked at the pitcher. After all, the latter was his commanding officer, and the kid couldn't forget it, even in the heat of baseball battle. The kid said:

"I'm sorry, dog-gone it... Sir!"

Just the Berres

If we were a baseball player, and could pick our job, we'd take over for Joe Just, Cincinnati Red catcher; Roy Berres, Giant catcher, or Lena Blackburn, Philadelphia Athletics coach; Berres has been up only once in five games, while Blackburn gets $50 from the American League for sending each club a can of special dirt with which the umpires rub the baseballs before each game. What a life those guys lead—and that Berres was a holdout, yet.

We Asked You First
No. 1—What major league player gained the highest rank in the first World War?

No. 2—What catcher leads the list in stolen bases for receivers? (Tip—it's not Lombardi.)
(Answers at end of column—but don't look now.)

Today's Jest Star
Kenney Jones, Peoria Journal-Transcript: "The circus is now playing the ball parks—and the clowns should feel right at home."

We Just Learned

The figure 56 is a magic one in sports—Joe DiMaggio hit in 56 consecutive games, Ben Hogan finished in the money in 56 straight golf tournaments, Greg Rice won 56 straight races, Walter Johnson pitched 56 shutout innings in a row, and the Pittsburgh Pirates failed to score in 56 straight innings (Heinz beat 'em all by one).

The baseball answers
No. 1—Alfred Von Kollnitz, Chicago White Sox, major.
No. 2—Roger Bresnahan, New York Giants, 34 in 1903.

Sabina Ball Team Gets 'Loaded' for Game on Sunday

Although the boys who play under the banner of the Sabina Merchants are full of confidence after last Sunday's double win, Tobie Wical, the head man of the outfit, says he is taking no chances with the Holsum Red Birds when they come to Sabina from Columbus for next Sunday's game.

"We've really got the team loaded for this game," Tobie declared. But he did not amplify that assertion with either names or further details.

The Holsum boys have the only team that holds two consecutive wins from the Merchants.

Last Sunday, the Merchants got caught up unexpectedly with two teams on their Recreation Park. But, they were equal to the occasion. They took on the Good Hope outfit in the regularly scheduled game and came up with a 9 to 1 win. Then they entertained the Dayton Elks, who dropped in as a surprise as the result of some sort of booking mix-up, and sent them back home smarting under a 2 to 0 shutout.

By RAY PETERSON
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4—(AP)—"The first 50 years were the easiest," smiled Connie Mack as he looked back today over his years as a major league manager while last minute preparations for his golden jubilee celebration at Shibe Park tonight were rushed to completion.

Baseball's great of today and yesterday—Honus Wagner, Tris Speaker, George Sisler, Mickey Cochrane, Bill Dickey, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth and a score of others—will be on hand to honor the grand old man of baseball.

Win Streak of Nine Games Puts Cubs in Fourth Place

By JACK HAND

(By The Associated Press)

Cholly Grimm's banjo strummed a merry tune today as the Chicago Cubs inhaled rarefied first division air after spending the first three and a half months of the season in and out of the National League cellar.

The Bruins headed home via Pittsburgh with a 9-game win streak and a record of 12 victories in 17 eastern starts. Since June 25, when Grimm's crew was mired in last place by 4 1/2 lengths, Chicago took 26 of 38 games to pull past all the eastern entries. For the first time this season, the four western clubs hogged the first division spots.

Bill Nicholson stepped up his home run production from its usual sub-par start and clouded Nos. 22 and 23 yesterday as the Cubs humbled Brooklyn twice, 6-2 and 7-1. Nicholson moved past Mel Ott of the New York Giants in the home run derby and passed the Cards' Ray Sanders to take the R. B. I. lead with 75.

St. Louis humbled Pittsburgh, 15-2, with Teddy Wilks copping his seventh straight and his 10th win to one loss. Danny Litwhiler batted in six runs with four hits, including a three-run homer.

Chicago's White Sox went into a fifth-place tie with Detroit in the American League by downing Cleveland twice, 3-2 and 5-1.

All other big league clubs enjoyed an open date.

YEARLING THOROUGHBREDS AVERAGE $5,230 APIECE AT SECOND SALE IN KENTUCKY

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 4—(AP)—Kentucky thoroughbred breeders awoke today to discover a two million dollar business dumped in their lap by the war.

The four-day yearling sales, which closed here last night, grossed $2,285,000 or an average of $5,230 each for the 437 head offered to set a new record. The previous mark for yearlings was $2,170,775 or an average of $2,538 for 855 head paid in 1925 at all auction markets in the United States.

The new records were enough to convince Bluegrass horsemen they have a good thing in the Lexington market.

Although Kentucky ranks at the top of the thoroughbred producing states, owners had shipped their yearlings in previous years to Saratoga Springs, N. Y., for the big auctions. The closing of that market last season forced Kentucky breeders to hold their sales at home. Thus, the new business was born.

It was such a success it was decided to make the mark a permanent affair. Twenty-three of the leading Bluegrass horse farm owners last November formed the Breeders' Sales Company, a non-profit organization headed by Arthur B. Hancock, to handle the sales.

WIN NO. 16 IS SOUGHT BY BUCKY

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2—(AP)—Bucky Walters tries for that elusive 16th victory tonight at Crosley Field against the team that has been the least trouble to him—the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bucky has beaten the high-wide and handsome league leaders four times, including three shutouts. In 40 innings the Queen City's favorite righthander has allowed Billy Southworth's boys one run.

But the past three weeks have been bad ones for Walters because tonight's start marks his fifth attempt to register his 16th win. He did not win a contest in the eastern swing which the Reds just completed.

Yesterday Cincinnati played the Sampson Naval Training Center at Sampson, N. Y., and were defeated 8 to 7, with Johnny Vander Meer, erstwhile Redleg star, pitching for the Navy.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Aug. 4—AP—All grain futures slipped today with barley and rye leading the decline after issuance of a private report forecasting a large corn crop despite drought conditions in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Outside and cash house interest in wheat pit was small and because of limited transactions the market was influenced easily.

News that the corn crop on August 1 was 74 percent of normal compared with a 72 percent 10-year advance was reassuring to shorts in the rye market and the demand dropped sharply.

September oats were steady but the deferred contracts eased back under the pressure of Commission House liquidation.

At the close wheat was 1/4 to 1/2 lower than yesterday's finish, September 1.55 1/2. Oats were off 1/4 to 1/2, September 7 1/2. Rye was 1/4 to 1/2 lower, September 1.13 1/2.

KENNETH FOSTER HITS JAP ZERO DURING ATTACK

Good Hope Man Is Gunner on Liberator That Battled Over Jap Island

(Special to Record-Herald) HEADQUARTERS, 13th AAF, Southwest Pacific—(Passed by Australian Censor)—Well-aimed bullets from 13th AAF Liberator machine guns manned by S-Sgt. Kenneth M. Foster of Good Hope, were credited with damaging a Jap Zero in a recent battle over Yap Island, big enemy base in the Central Pacific.

The 13th AAF formation, battling heavy flak as well as the machine gun fire and phosphorus bombs dropped by 15 Zeros, shot down three enemy planes, probably destroyed another, and damaged five. In addition, supply and barracks areas and installations at the important enemy stronghold were battered.

Foster scored when one Zero attempted to attack the Liberator from the rear. Firing the top turret machine guns, Foster hit the enemy ship many times. The plane came to within 300 yards of the bomber, then peeled off, apparently out of control with its engines pouring heavy black smoke.

Sergeant Foster entered the AAF in May, 1941, and has been overseas with the 13th AAF since May, 1944. He is a graduate of Wayne High School.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Foster of Good Hope and has a wide circle of friends throughout the community.

Lt. Gen. B. C. Freyburg, commander of the New Zealanders, made plans for an entry by his troops, which have been on the go since the battle of Crete.

An example of the toll taken of the Nazis defending Florence was the announcement that the Eighth army captured 5,000 prisoners in 14 days, ending July 27, only 2,000 less than the number captured in the preceding eight weeks.

"The losses in killed and wounded had been high," the spokesman said.

Although there were no major actions reported on the Fifth army front, the Germans continued their efforts to send their troops into American lines on the south bank of the Arno River.

REDS SMASHING AHEAD MOSCOW, Aug. 4.—(P)—Russian forces which smashed the German Vistula River line advanced swiftly today to within 91 miles of German Silesia while other army groups in the north shelled towns and villages inside East Prussia from positions three miles from the frontier.

Another triumph in the Carpathians carried the Red army within five miles of Czechoslovakia after chasing the Germans from Jabonkow, a short distance from the crest of Uzok Pass, through which Russia invaded Hungary in the first World War.

Russian forces moved within 58 miles of Krakow, fifth city of Old Poland, over difficult hill country. In this area west of the Vistula, some 110 miles below beleaguered Warsaw, the Russians were within 30 miles of Tarnow and 28 of Kielce (pop. 58,200), last large Nazi bastion before Krakow.

Official sources were silent on the siege of Warsaw, where Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's army group was pulled up just east of the Polish capital. In the Baltic states, Russian tanks were patrolling the shores of the Gulf of Riga, 25 miles west of Riga and Pravda said they were striking both east toward that capital of 393,000 and also west toward Liepaja, Latvia's second city and west coast seaport.

All along the 1,000-mile front from the Baltic to the Carpathians, the Germans were reported rolling up reserves, particularly in the Warsaw and Vistula breach area. Concentrations of the German Air Force appeared in a desperate attempt to check Russian lunges.

Belief in Moscow quarters was that the Vistula breakthrough might be the start of a serious German rout.

WARNING BY SHERIFF Sheriff W. H. Icenhower has issued a warning to all those who received stolen property from George and Robert Barton, who are now serving time in the Boys Industrial School for burglarizing the W. A. Armbrust residence some weeks ago, that they must turn such property over to the Sheriff without delay, or face prosecution for receiving stolen property.

If the property is returned promptly the matter will be dropped.

Sheriff Icenhower said that officials at the B.I.S. are obtaining a list of those to whom the boys sold or gave stolen articles.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER Joseph Hyer to Albert L. Hyer, half of lot 17, Cherry Street.

SATURDAY END OF TAX PERIOD, $40,000 IS LEFT

Stragglers Have Chance To Pay as Late as 3:30 P. M. Saturday

As the deadline for paying real estate taxes creeps closer—the county treasurer's office will stay open until 3:30 P. M. Saturday to give the stragglers plenty of time—$40,000 of the $168,000 taxes remains to be paid.

Using round figures, the treasurer's office said most of the $40,000 left represented taxes due from small taxpayers—nearly all of the big lumps from large property owners have come in already.

While the officials working in the treasurer's office hope all the outstanding taxes will be paid by Saturday at 3:30 P. M., they are making allowances for the inevitable list of delinquent taxes—a list which has shrunk to one of the lowest on record here.

precipally near the Prussian border town of Edytukuhnen. But along the Niemen River due east of Tilsit, Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky struck straight into the Germans and captured Lukse, 42 miles from that town. Some 200 towns were swept up in that area.

The midnight communique listed 6,400 Germans killed, raising Nazi losses in three days to above 20,000. (The Moscow radio said the Baltic States, where 20 to 30 German divisions were reported by Prime Minister Churchill to be cut off, "are becoming one enormous German graveyard.")

Soviet troops held the upper reaches of the Vistula under complete control. A giant encircling arm curving along the west bank threatened to cut off those Germans battling Marshal Ivan S. Konev's westward drive on Krakow. Konev's forces were approaching Tarnow, 45 miles to the east.

(The German News Agency Transocean, in a broadcast heard in London, admitted bitter fighting between Polish underground forces striking at the German rear in Warsaw and in the Carpathians.)

AIR ATTACKS RENEWED

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(P)—The German radio said Allied daylight raiders were headed toward the Reich before noon today, following up last night's two-way squeeze on Hitler's European Fortress by Allied bombers from Britain and Italy which hammered German supply routes across France.

Unfavorable weather again restricted night operations of British-based planes, but skies over France cleared at dawn.

Normandy-based fighter bombers were in the air at the first sign of light in a renewal of the assault on German forces and installations beyond the battle line.

Only nine German planes were sighted over the battle area and seven were shot down by the Mosquitos.

After the weather cleared at mid-day yesterday the Allied air units based in Britain and Normandy flew 5,000 sorties.

U. S. medium bombers concentrated also on communications in southern France, hitting rail and highway bridges near Nice.

125 MAY DIE BECAUSE THEY NEEDED BLOOD

125 More Blood Donors Must Register To Meet Quota Here by Monday

Somewhere 125 servicemen may die because 125 Fayette countians did not volunteer to give a pint of their blood when the Red Cross Unit comes here Monday and Tuesday.

One of the 125 men might be a Fayette County boy. This is the way Ray Brandenburg, chairman of the blood donor committee, puts it.

"Help! Help! Help! This might be the cry of a wounded Fayette County boy who was your neighbor and friend as he slowly bleeds to death at a foreign hospital base. For lack of what?"

"A pint or several pints of blood which his buddies and friends back home were either too busy or too indifferent to give.

BLOOD WANTED!

Blood is needed . . . 125 pints of it are needed here to fill the quota when the Red Cross Mobile Unit comes August 7 and 8. It is simple to make an appointment. Call 8611 at any time for your appointment to send part of yourself into the battle lines all over the world.

"It sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? And it is not only ridiculous but pitiful when out of 21,000 people you almost have to beg on your knees to get 360 blood donors. "We still lack 125 people to give one pint each on Monday and Tuesday. Are we going to come through as we should or are we going to go on as usual and count on the other fellow doing what we should do ourselves? "Let's go into action now. Call 8611 and make your appointment at once. We know you won't fail that boy over there."

One woman in Washington C. H. has given blood several times—and with good reason, too, for her five sons were all in service. That woman is Mrs. Percy Shaffer, 814 Leesburg Avenue. Her son, Pfc. Golden Shaffer was killed in action in the Pacific. Now Mrs. Shaffer has only four sons in service, but it would be safe to say she will continue to give her blood after the shock of learning of her son's death is dispelled.

THURSDAY ONE OF THE HOTTEST DAYS

Mercury Reached 98 Early in Afternoon

Thursday, with a peak temperature of 98 degrees in the afternoon before the sky became overcast with clouds which brought rains to some surrounding areas, was one of the hottest and most disagreeable days of the entire series of this season.

The humidity added greatly to the uncomfortableness of the high temperature.

Friday was following closely the high temperature of Thursday, and took its place as the 35th day since June 1st, with 90 degrees or more of heat.

MAN IS KILLED, THREE INJURED, NEAR LEESBURG

B. & O. Section Trailer Is Wrecked While Hauling Dozen Workmen

Bert Easter, 63, of Samantha, was killed and three other men were injured seriously Thursday, when a Baltimore and Ohio trailer, carrying 12 members of a section crew, jumped the track a half mile west of Leesburg.

Those injured are: Howard Washburn, 18, Everett Reese, 55, and Marion Neff, 54, of Leesburg. They were taken to Hillsboro Hospital.

The trailer was attached to a motor car and was traveling east when it left the rails and overturned in a ditch.

Easter sustained a fractured skull and the other three who were badly injured sustained cuts and bruises and possible fractures. Some of the men escaped by jumping and their injuries consisted of bruises.

Planning Commission To Be Included in Talk

Robert E. Willis, county engineer, will be the featured speaker at the Rotary Club next Tuesday noon at the organization's luncheon meeting at the Country Club.

He also will give the Rotarians a picture of what goes on inside a typical county engineer's office in Ohio.

NOW SEEK PILOT OF DEATH PLANE

Son of Victim Owns Cottage Court in This City

Search is being made for the pilot of a P-47 plane, one of three which swooped down over Lake Marguerite, near Grayling, Michigan, Wednesday, and killed Mrs. Mary Meyer, 72, mother of Walter G. Meyer, Maderia, Ohio, who owns Cottage Court on Columbus Avenue in this city.

Apparently the three pilots sought to frighten the occupants of the boat, and the undercarriage of one plane struck Mrs. Meyer in the back and ripped her back open, causing death within a few minutes, according to word reaching this city.

She died in the arms of her son who was with her in a fishing boat at the time.
